STL Mosaic Project Consultant

What do you love about Saint Louis?

I was born in Kerala, India. I have always wanted to travel and look for the adventures of life. And so, I packed my bags and set off to the enchanting realm of England, where I pursued my MA and Ph.D. at Durham University. Cheers to education and exploration! Before I found my way to STL, I had lived in NJ, NM, several states in India, Fujairah in UAE, and England. I love STL! I love this place for so many reasons. I love it for the friends I have made, for the beautiful parks my kids love, for the many hiking trails I have explored with my family, for Turmeric (the restaurant!), for the cops who go fishing with the neighborhood kids at Sunset Hills, for the great schools, for the kind stranger who gave me tickets to the Magic House because she “just wanted to bless this day”, for the outstanding teachers in my children’s lives, for all the considerate drivers who follow traffic rules, for the frozen custard, for the great people who believe in making this region a cultural mosaic!
